A Turn for the Better!

12th December 2008

To Our Customers,

On August 18th 2008 the Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act of 2008 (CPSIA) was passed by Congress setting new standards for consumer safety including lead and phthalate content, 3rd party testing, and product labeling requirements. I would like to re-assure you that our board games comply with national and international safety testing standards, and that we proudly print and assemble our games in the USA.

At HL Games we are dedicated to ensuring that our board games are both safe and high quality. We ensure that lead paint is not used and that the components in our games are independently tested to rigorous safety standards. Our games not only meet (and, indeed, exceed) the new CPSIA requirements, but in addition are subject to independent testing to comply with ASTM F963-03, European Standard EN71, and European Council Directive 91/338/EEC. We are happy to make copies of these available upon request.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me directly.

Sincerely,

Graeme Thomson
